Sermon for All Saints Day. I bet there are a number of people here, besides myself, who would say that one of their favourite hymns is the hymn we sang at our very special All Saints' evensong last night and are going to sing again in a few minutes – “For all the Saints”. The tune we use for it has a name, and I wonder if anyone in the choir can tell us all what its name is?

Sermon for All Saints Day - St Michael and All Angels
And so, it is fitting that our gospel text on this All Saints' Day is from the first portion of Jesus' Sermon on the Mount, a section concerned with the enumeration of the beatitudes. The Sermon on the Mount is one of the most, if not the most, scrutinized of Jesus' teachings, likely due to it being his longest sustained discourse in the New Testament.

God's Work with Us, All Saints' Day (A) - November 1, 2020 ... by Rev. Frank Schaefer W hen we think of All Saints Day, we often think of canonized saints; Christian heroes and heroines, that are no longer with us--good people, but dead people. We tend to "canonize" our loved ones who died. The longer they've been dead, the better person they seem to have been.

Friday 1 November 2019: All Saints Day
The willingness to welcome, accept, and embrace one another is more than the slogan, “The Episcopal Church welcomes you.”. It is the beatitudes, and it is the way of the saints. Allow me a confession: I intended to preach the conventional All Saints' Day sermon, “Tell some stories about the saints, then say, “be like them, and embrace suffering.”.

Lessons From The Saints: Sermon for All Saints Day - Rian ...
After worship this past All Saints Sunday, many people asked if the sermon had been recorded. Unfortunately it had not. However, we offer up a copy of the sermon as it was shared on November 02, 2014: Grace to you and peace from God our Father and from our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. The text for this morning is from Revelation chapter 7. Here St. John gives us a glimpse of HEAVENLY WORSHIP ... which is really is nothing different than - and joins together with - our own.

All Saints Day Sermon – Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd
We nurture peace among ourselves and others when we are people marked by kindness, compassion, healing, reconciliation, and forgiveness. Jesus said, “Blessed are the peacemakers, for they will be called children of God.”. Happy All Saints' Day to all you saints of God. The Beatitudes are for you!

Scriptures for All Saints Day: Revelation 7:9-17; Psalm 34:1-10, 22; 1 John 3:1-3; Matthew 5:1-12. M.C. Escher is one of my favorite artists. He's the guy who did the pencil drawings featuring things like two hands drawing each other and a set of stairs that endlessly cycled back upon itself. Escher is great because you can't just glance at his work for a moment and get it.

Sunday 1st November 2009. The Archbishop preached on All Saints' Day at All Saints' Margaret Street, London, for the 150th year of the consecration of the church. Lectionary: Isaiah 65.17–end; Hebrews 11.32–12.2. In the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, Amen. 'Seeing we are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight and the sin that so easily besets us.'

Archbishop's sermon at All Saints' Margaret Street, London
Sermon for All Saints Day “I do not cease to give thanks for you as I remember you in my prayers.” When St Paul, or one of his followers, wrote that line – or dictated it – in that lovely exuberant letter to the new Christians of Ephesus, he was writing of what was going on there and then, in his immediate world – a world that he didn't expect would endure for very long.
